Statement:

I didn't have a real art teacher, until I studied Cambridge GCE A-level Art and Design; so, I entered the 'serious art' scene a little late. Over the last three years, I learned drawing techniques, various mediums—Pencil, color pastels, water color, acrylic, and oil color; and refined basic essentials.

My artworks mainly constitute of still life elements and the recent representative works; the latter is influenced by the former—they are focused on the individual aspect of the piece unlike landscapes. My works don't have a specific theme or purpose, but they are rather defined by emotions and mood; for example, a horrible stench from the trashcan, I forgot to empty. Often times, even the still life, act as an extension or expression of my ideas and perspectives; they are usually far from the reality. I keep a sketchbook which has a similar use to me, as a journal to a writer would be; I jot down and draw basic shapes, which I use as inspiration for painting a piece. I believe, I am a more mathematics oriented person than artistic which is especially advantageous for me, as I get a peek into both worlds, makes me more of a well levelled person, and sometimes just helps me escape the hard facts and numbers. Art has unexpectedly become an integral part of me; I have just started to explore the more artistic and expressive aspects of my life and want to continue to do so during the course my college life.
